

P. Selvakumar currently working as an Assistant Professor in Sir Issac Newton Law College, Nagapattinam. He studied his B.A.B.L., from Government Law College, Tirunelveli, between 2008 and 2013, and completed his M.A. in Sociology at Annamalai University, Chidambaram, Tamil Nadu, from 2017 to 2019. Additionally, he obtained a Post Graduate Degree in M.L., specializing in Constitutional Law and Human Rights from Government Law College, Tirunelveli, during the period of 2014 to 2016. He has also held the position of Guest Lecturer at Government Law College, Chengalpattu, for 3 years, followed by a 4 years tenure at Dr. Ambedkar Government Law College, Pudupakkam. Furthermore, he has practiced as an advocate at Chengalpattu District Court for 12 years. His postgraduate project focused on Environmental Law. He has authored 4 research articles covering topics such as Human Rights, Environmental Law, the Indian Constitution, and the Judiciary. His academic contributions include participation in 2 national seminars, 1 international seminar, and 1 workshop, along with involvement in 7 national and 2 international webinars. He has also attended 1 faculty development programme. His teaching portfolio includes subjects like Jurisprudence, Constitutional Law, and Human Rights, with a specialization in Jurisprudence and ongoing work in Constitutional Law.